NATHANIEL GREENE'S GRAVE.

Judge Schenck Writes Interestingly of the Disappearance of the General's Body—Pulaski Also Lies in an Unknown Grave.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

I see in the Charlotte Observer of the 19th that "General Nathaniel Greene's grave has been located by Allen R. Wright, of Atlanta, who received the information from persons who were at the burial; most probably a secret one."

Doctor Charles C. Jones, of Augusta, Georgia, wrote a pamphlet about this matter a few years ago—six or seven perhaps.

It seems that when the State of Georgia confiscated the property of a rich loyalist named Graham probably, the magnificent plantation known as subsequently "Dundee," was given to General Greene and he resided there till he died. There was appurtenant to this property a fine vault in a cemetery at Savannah. The bodies of the loyalists' family were carefully removed and reburied in the cemetery, and General Greene's body was placed in it. When the splendid Greene monument was about to be erected in Savannah, and the intention was to place the General's body under it, the vault was examined and it was discovered his body had been removed to some unknown place. The mystery of the disappearance has never been unravelled, though it was generally conceded that the friends of the offended loyalist did the act, and persons in Savannah were believed to have all the information about it. A man died there a few years ago who said he knew about it, but refused to disclose it. Mr. Wright is, therefore, the first one to throw some light on this great mystery.

It atwas "Dundee" that Light Horse Harry Lee, the father of General Robert E. Lee, died. General Green was then dead, but his family cared for the old hero who came to their home about 1813, on his return from Cuba, where he had gone for his health, but in vain. He ran the English blockade to the mouth of the Savanah river. His sufferings were agonizing. He, too, is buried at Savnnah and his monument is well known.

It is a coincidence thas the body of the brave Pulaski also lies in an unknown grave. He was killed October 9, 1719, in an attack on Savannah, then held by the British. There is a fine monument to his memory in Savannah and I have an impression that a body exhumed below Savannah supposed to be that of Pulaski lies under it.

There is no spot so rich in historical revolutionary lore as this Southern city—much might be written here, but I am too feeble to do it.

A Quiet Sabbath.

Yesterday was an exceedingly quiet day in police circles, not a single arrest being made. A lot of rough characters usually make themselves obnoxious on the Sabbath by raising some kind of a disturbance during the day, but yesterday they were not in evidence. Not even in "Duplin" was there the suggestion of a row.

Legless, Blind and Starving.

New York Sun.

Charles Bront, a blind and legless negro, who has been a peddler in Harlem for the past twenty-five years, was found at Ninetv-seventh street and Third avenue last night by a policeman. Bront has been suffering from rheumatism and has been lying helpless in his room at 208 East Ninety-seventh street. He says that he has been unable to dress or feed himself and that when he appealed to the neighbors they told him he would starve before they would do anything for him. He finally crawled out of the house, he said, because he was starving. He was sent to the Harlem Hospital.

BLESSINGS OF CHRISTIANITY.

REV. JOHNSON AT A. & M. COLLEGE.

The Baccalaureate Sermon Yesterday. Paul as an Example--The World's Indebtedness to Christianity--Its Lack of Appreciation--The Application of the Golden Rule.

The commencement exercises at the Agricultural and Mechanical College were opened yesterday afternoon at 3 o'olock, with the baccalaureate sermon by Rev. Livingston Johnson. A good crowd filled the chapel and gave close attention throughout.

Mr. Johnson read as a scripture lesson the twenty-seventh chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, containing an account of Paul's shipping to Rome as a prisoner of the Jews and the shipwreck on the island of Melita. He announced as his text the tenth verse of the twenty-eighth chapter of the Acts: "Who also honored us with many honors; and when we departed, they laded us with such things as were necessary."

The minister divided his subject under two heads: First, The world's great indebtedness to Christianity; and second, The world's lack of appreciation of its obligation. He took Paul as a representative of Christianity, and his companions on the voyage (the centurion, the soldiers and the ship's crew) as representatives of the world. Speaking of Paul's advice to his companions on shipboard to stop in Crete in order to escape the perils of a rough winter voyage, the speaker referred to the fact that Christianity always offers the very best and safest advice, which, however, the world often fails to heed.

The desire of some of the soldiers to end Paul's life when the ship went aground, after they had been brought safely through the dangers incident to the perilous voyage, was used to illustrate the tendency of the world to disregard the divine command, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them." The proper application of the golden rule, Mr. Johnson said, would settle all trouble, both industrial and political. There would be no further differences between labor and capital; there would be no more strikes of laborers and no more oppression of caapitalists. There would be an end to business failures, for, with the golden rule in force, Christ would be a partner, and his advice followed would always bring success.

The speaker declared that the world is saved from destruction on account of God's people, who are the salt of the earth, and that the religion of Christ is responsible for our greatest temporal blessings. He briefly contrasted the Christian nations with heathen lands, saying "The religion of Jesus Christ sends commerce unto the ends of the earth and whitens every sea; it has broken down the wall surrounding China and let the 'Celestial Empire' out into the broad world." Continuing, he alluded to a few other and greater blessings following Christianity, mentioning the provision for the poor and unfortunate in the shape of hospitals, asylums, etc., which are found nowhere except as a result of the influence of the religion of Christ.

Under the second division of his subject, Mr. Johnson said if the world appreciated its obligation to Christianity it would adopt and accept the Christian religion. The continued efforts of men to destroy the blessed influences of Christianity were mentioned as evidence of the world's hostility. He said the criticisms in which men indulge are the very strongest endorsements of Christianity.

Mr. Johnson concluded his remarks with a few words of advice and encouragement to the students of the institution, urging them to shoulder the increased responsibilities of life and set themselves up as examples to their race.

The sermon was plain, earnest and practical, calculated to do much good.

After announcements by President Dudley, the exercises were concluded with the benediction.

This evening at 8 o'clock the anniversary exercises of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. P. S. C. E. will be held.

The public is invited to attend the exercises of the week.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE.

A Good Sermon on This Subject at Grace M. P. Church.

The South Greensboro churches agreed to devote yesterday's services to the subject of Sabbath observance, in consequence of which Rev. Mr. Hartsell chose for his text, "The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath," and built upon it a sermon both forceful and rational. Sabbath observance is essential, both to the temporal and eternal interests of man, for they are inseparably linked.

In speaking of secular recreation on Sunday, and the plea that such recreation is necessary to people confined all the week in stores and factories, Mr. Hartsell said that if these things are of the supremest importance—if there is nothing more important—then they are right. He did not lay down an arbitrary law against all secular recreation on Sunday. If we understood him correctly, such recreation is right in its connection, but needful recreation must be carefully distinguished from Sunday amusement.

For the offertory Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Teague sang the duet "Love divine, all love excelling," by Stainer. A large and attentive congregation was present.

A HORSE KILLED.

A Valuable Animal Dies as the Result of Reckless Driving.

As a result of hard driving or improper treatment one of Wheeler Brothers' black mares is dead, while her mate is in a very bad condition and will be unable to work for some time. The horses made a valuable team, being fast steppers and perfect matches.

Yesterday morning they were hired to some young men who said they wished to drive to Whitsett, a distance of 14 miles. When the horses were returned to the stables last night they bore evidences of mistreatment and were both suffering. In spite of all that could be done, one of them died during the night.

The horses were bought in St. Louis and were regarded as among the best in Greensboro. A handsome price had only a few days ago been refused for the team.

As to Daniel L's Vote.

Raleigh Correspondence Charlotte Observer.

It is hinted pretty broadly that Governor Russell, when he votes next August, will not put in a ballot for Spencer Adams and the remainder of the Republican State outfit, but will vote for Cyrus Thompson et al. on the Populist ticket, and that such friends of the Governor as Loge Harris and Charles A. Cook will do likewise.

A FOOT WASHING.

An Old Custom Observed---A Fight in High Point.

High Point, May 21—Quite a crowd went from here to Abbott's Creek yesterday to attend the annual May meeting of the Primitive Baptists.

Joshua H. Slaughter, Miss Maggie Slaughter, and little sister, Pauline, of Lexington, spent yesterday in town visiting friends.

Edward H. Millis, who has a position with the Bank of Randolph, Asheboro, spent Sunday at his home here.

Tomorrow night, in the opera house, there will be a concert given by a chapter of orphans from the Oxford Orphan Asylum for the benefit of that institution.

A called meeting of local prohibitionists will be held in the room of the Business Men's Association tonight to elect delegates to the State convention which convenes at Salisbury tomorrow.

Mr. L. J. Ingram has disposed of his stock of furniture to Mr. Jacobs, of Winston, who had the same moved to that town. The room vacated is undergoing repairs. It will be occupied by the Forsyth Chair Company, which will carry a full line of chairs. Tomlinson & Company, manufacturers' selling agenes, have an office on the first floor.

I have been informed of an old practice which today is participated in by the colored people living around Jametown. Evevery year they have what is called a "foot-washing," at which time they wash one another's feet, thereby forgiving each other's transgressions and renewing their faith in the Lowly Nazarene. Yesterterday the annual foot-washing took place.

Evangelist Boyd, who graced our streets several years ago, and who was the recipient of several eggs that were anything but fresh, for a remark made in his talk, is in town again. Last evening he spoke at the same place as when here before—on the street in front of the High Point Provision Company. In his discourse he referred to the doctrine of infant baptism. Said he "While some of the people are preaching infant baptism, the infants are all asleep and the sinners going to hell by the carload."

B. F. Long and Miss Julia Taylor, of Statesville, were here Saturday evening enroute home.

There were exercises by the children at the M. P. church last night.

There was a fracus in town Saturday night sometime after 12 o'clock. It seems that several white men were out for a good time and inadvertently ran up with several colored men who were drinking and also out for a good time. One of the negroes threw a rock at one of the white men, after which the latter, in looking for his antagonist in the dark, was slashed across the coat with a knife. The white man then let the negro have it across the face with his knife. On account of some of the witnesses and one or two of the accomplices not being present, the trial, which was set for last evening was postponed until today. The white men arrested were let out on bonds of twenty-five dollars each until the trial.

J. L. Armfield, of Thomasville, spent yesterday at his home here.

REPUBLICANS NOT IN H HURRY.

THE ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.

The House Ready to Adjourn About June 1st--The Senate Not in a Rush to Close. Senator Daniel's Amendments to Sundry Civil Bill.

Special to the Telegram.

Washington, May 21—It is expected that during the present week, perhaps today, resolutions may be offered in the House of Representatives looking to the adjournment of Congress. It is anticipated that the house resolution, or rather, the first resolution on this subject which is offered, will look to the adjournment of Congress about June 1st. It is not likely, however, that any resolution will be passed in either house for a week or two. The introduction of the resolutions, however, by the Republican leaders in the House will be a notification to the Senate that so far as the lower House is concerned, Congress is ready to adjourn.

As a matter of fact the Montana senatorship dispute, appropriation bills, and other matters pending in the senate are such as to keep Congress in Washington until pretty nearly the middle of June. Many of the house republican leaders in reality are not averse to remaining in Washington until just a few days before the Republican national convention. Many of the members wish to attend that convention, and they can stay in Washington until just before the convention, and go to Philadelphia at that time, much more reasonably than by adjourning June 1st, and then taking a long trip to their homes, and coming east again to attend the Philadelphia convention.

The senators apparently are never in such a rush to close the session of Congress as are the house leaders, considering legislation in a more deliberate manner. It is doubtful, taking everything into consideration, therefore if the adjournment can come much earlier than the fifteenth of June which is the date set by most of the Republican senators seen.

Senator Daniel has introduced an important amendment, which he proposed to be added to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill. The amendment proposed provides for the appropriation of $120,000 to pay the State of Virginia for advances made to the United States in pursuance of act of Virginia General Assembly passed December 27th, 1790. The amendment has been referred to the committee on appropriations.

Senator Daniel has also offered an amendment to the Sundry Civil bill providing for an appropriation of $1,800 for one agent to be selected by the secretary of the navy from the officers of the late Confederate Navy, by reason of their personal experience and special aptitude, in connection with the work of collecting and compiling the naval records.

Miss Julia Burr, of this city, who has been spending the winter at Greensboro, has returned home.

Infant Baptisms In Russia.

"I was fortunate enough," writes Trumbull White, "to visit the Church of St. David, in Tiflis, Russia, just in time to attend a baptismal ceremony. According to the rites of the Greek church, as practiced in this ancient Georgian temple, the youngster in question, a fine boy 4 or 5 weeks old, had to be immersed three times in a baptismal font filled with water, each time to be completely covered, in addition to various blessings and anointings with holy oil and several long prayers.

"The benevolent looking old priest proved himself a man of kindly thoughtfulness. While the family group around the baby was getting him properly unclad, for the ceremony requires that the child shall be naked, the priest surreptitiously dipped his finger into the font, and I saw by his face that it was too cold. Then he stepped behind a screen, where his samovar was steaming, emptied the hot water into a pitcher, and while the family still kept busy over the baby he poured enough to temper the pool that had been provided for the shorn lamb. The result was that the little fellow took his plunges without a murmur and thereby distinguished himself."—Chicago Record.

A Diplomatic Poet.

An eastern poet has penned some rhymes that show he is a born diplomat. Here is a sample verse:

And the goldenrod droops down its head
In sullenness of despair,
For its splendor that flamed is outshone and shamed
By the gold of Evadne's hair!

If that isn't a neat and unobjectionable way of calling a girl redhéaded, we don't know what is.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Legend of the Violin.

An ancient legend tells us that one day as Orpheus, son of Apollo and the muse Calliope, was walking by the sea, trilling in soft cadence a song taught him by the celebrated teacher Linos, he was attracted by the sound of sweet music, which seemed but the echo of his own glorious voice. He walked along, singing, and the sound approached, as if to meet him, till finally it sang at his very feet.

Glancing down, he saw the shell of a turtle, which had been cast high and dry upon the beach and left there by the receding waves. The little thing had died and dried up so that only the sinews, shriveled to strings, and the shell remained. The dried up sinews were tightly stretched across the hollow shell, and the wind, as it listed, touched the strings, causing them to vibrate over the shell sounding board and give forth the sweet, sad tones.

Enchanted, he bore his treasure home and from it fashioned the viol shell, with which he ever after accompanied his voice, and the nymph Eurydice, enchanted by its magic, became his bride.—National Magazine.

A GRADUATE OF THE NORMAL

A SUPERIOR GRADE OF WORK.

Miss Brown Has Won Distinction in the Service of the Goverment—Three Promotions in Salary.

A recent issue of the Typewriter and Phonographic World, published in New York, contains a lengthy and complimentary article on Miss Rachel C. Brown, a graduate of the State Normal and Industrial College, who, since 1895, has held responsible positions in the government service. As a result of a highly successful examination passed in the spring of 1895, she was appointed to a position in the Interior Department at Washington, later being detailed to assist the clerk to the superintendent of Indian schools. After a short while she was made stenographer to the assistant chief of the assignment division in said office. On November 9, 1896, at the request of the superintendent of Indian schools (Dr. Hailman, translator of Froebel's "Education of Man," etc.), she was transferred to his office in the place of his former clerk. Here she had charge of the clerical work and during the frequent absences of the superintendent on inspecting tours, carried on the routine business of the office.

The journal above refered to says:

"Since her original appointment she has received frequent assurances from officials of the satisfactory performance of the duties assigned her and especially that her stenographic work is accurate and of high grade, her services having been recognized in the substantial way of three promotions in salary. At this writing, she is stenographer to the chief of the educational division in the office of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

"Miss Brown's work as a student was an earnest guarantee of her future success. Ten days before her graduation in May, 1894, she reported a three days' session of the North Carolina State Medical Association.

"Until her departure in 1895, she had again reported the State Medical Association and various other conventions, at the same time holding a responsible position with a firm of lawyers, in Newbern, N. C., her native town, being called upon at times to report referee cases, etc.

"She writes the Isaac Pitman system of shorthand, and was educated at the State Normal and Industrial College, of which institution she is a regular graduate. Her civil service examination was taken above the 140-word rate, the commission's first standard, and while her grade may seem low, yet those who are acquainted with the close grading of the commission will recognize the above to be a high average.

"The technical work of the most difficult kind, undertaken in her native State, which received the highest commendations from the medical profession, and that done abroad which won the endorsement of government officials, are sufficient evidence of ability without further comment."

A number of Virginia traveling men, accompanied by several ladies, passed through yesterday evening on their way to New Orleans to attend the national convention of the Traveling Men's Protective Association. They traveled in a special Pullman attached to the southbound local train.

PLAIN SAMANTHY ANN.

Twice lucky is the poet who
May call his sweetheart Rose;
His sonnets speak her eyes of blue,
His ballads sing her pose.
A rhyme with Gladys one might pen,
Quite good enough to scan,
But what if your girl's cognomen
Was plain Samanthy Ann?

Now, if 'twere Grace or Isabel
Or May, without a doubt,
The muse would weave a mystic spell
And some way help him out,
But Pegasus will veer in fright,
Dismounting any man
Who dares an amorous verse indite
To plain Samanthy Ann.

There's Poe's Lenore and Burns' Jean
For song were graceful themes,
They well might speak of "modest mien"
And weave their fancied dreams,
But my sweetheart! Ah, such a shame
To thus inflict a ban
On rhyming lover with a name
Like plain Samanthy Ann.

HOW A CLAIM PAID.

One Way of Getting Money Without Panning It Out.

"There are more ways of making money off a claim than panning it out," said an Alaska miner who had some luck with his pick and shovel. "For instance, I knew a man of means in the Dawson district who had a claim which had failed to be as profitable as expected, and he didn't know just what to do with it to get his money back until he had devoted considerable thought to it. And it was simple enough when he knew how.

"He quietly went to the gold commissioner and announced that he wished to pay his 10 per cent royalty on the product of his claim for a year, which was $6,000. The commissioner accepted the $6,000 royalty and gave him the usual receipt, stating on its face what it was for, with the number of the claim, location, etc.

"Then he 'waited patiently about,' like Mary's little lamb, and one day, in the course of human events, an Englishman came along looking for a good thing for some people who had money to spend. He asked Mr. Blank, among others, what he had to sell, and the smooth gent told him he didn't know exactly, but he would show him his goods. They looked over several claims that were practically unworked, and then in a casual way Mr. Blank showed the Englishman his receipt for royalty on claim so and so. 'And, you know,' he said, with a wink, 'that a man isn't paying royalty on any more than he can possibly help.'

"The Englishman was right on to that little game, of course, and he sized up the $6,000 receipt, looked over the claim in a general way and ended by buying it for $150,000."—Washington Star.

Siamese people have so superstitious a dislike for odd numbers that they strive always to have an even number of rooms, doors, windows, closets, etc., in their houses.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century people were hanged in Great Britain for the illicit manufacture of salt.

Bare feet are almost preferable to some shoes. The kind that it is necessary to break in generally make a man break out and say things. We had made purposely for comfort a lot of men's fine kid shoes in lace and congress. The prices are right.

He saw the hole in the sack when he was filling it. But it was such a little hole that he thought it wouldn't matter. Out of that little hole he lost his grain while taking it to market.

It's that way with holes in the health. None are so small but life can leak out of them. "I've got a little touch of indigestion" says one man. Another says, "my stomach feels a little out of sorts." It is just such little things which if neglected mean the total loss of health.

The one medicine for disorders and diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the activity of the whole digestive and nutritive system, clears away obstructions, stops the loss the body sustains by undigested or partly digested food, purifies the blood from the poisons resulting from imperfect digestion, and increases the secretions of the blood-making glands. "Golden Medical Discovery" has a wonderful record of cures of so-called "hopeless" cases.

Mr. Thos. H. Rudasill, of Henry, Lincoln Co., N. C., says: "After having suffered from inaction of the liver and all the troubles usually attending such a condition for over twenty years, and having deluged my system with floods of medicine from every available source, and being only temporarily benefited thereby, I applied to your institution for treatment You instructed me to take a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I am now doing. Although unable to strictly follow directions I have derived more actual benefit from the few bottles I have taken so far than from all the other remedies together.

Allow me to thank you for your prompt and courteous attention to my case as well as for the good received from it."

OUT OF PROPORTION.

London jubilations over the relief of Mafeking seem to the stranger who is uninfected with the excitement to be out of all proportion to the importance of the event. The opinion of mankind that the English are exceptionally cool-headed and reserved will have to be revised if they shall caper all over their streets like so many Jean Crapards whenever their army may meet with a trifling success. In truth, however, the furore of joy in London should be regarded as the reaction from the depths of despondency into which the English had been cast by the many reverses suffered by their soldiers at the hands of bands of undisciplined Dutch farmers. Their present exultation gives one an idea of the depth of the gloom that had formerly prevailed in London.

The Philadelphia Record is correct when it says "it is mainly the fault of the Senators themselves that men of the Clark stamp hold the Senate in contempt." The Senate has not been sufficiently regardful of its honor and prestige as the most dignified legislative body in the world, and it has thus indirectly encouraged practical politicians in their endeavors to break into the membership with the assistance of those means and methods with which they are most familiar.

THE CONSECRATION OF ST. ANDREWS

The Beautiful Little Church Formally Dedicated Yesterday.

St. Andrew's Episcopal church was formally dedicated yesterday, the consecration service being conducted by Rt. Rev. Joseph Blount Cheshire, bishop of the Diocese of North Carolina. The Bishop was assisted by Rev. Dr. Meade, of Chapel Hill; Rev. Mr. Bell, of Wilson; Rev. A. A. Pruden, of Durham; Rev. Horace Weeks Jones, rector of St. Barnabas, and Rev. J. D. Miller, rector of St. Andrew's parish.

The sermon was preached by Rev Dr. Meade.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The choir had prepared some appropriate music, which was rendered in a charming manner.

Rev. Mr. Bell preached a splendid sermon in the evening.

MAIDS OF HONOR.

Delegates from Guilford to the Louisville Reunion.

The following young ladies have been recommended by the proper authories—the commander of the Guilford Camp of Confederate Veterans and the president of the Guilford Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy,—and appointed by Gen. Julian S. Carr as delegates to the Confederate reunion in Louisville, Ky.:

Misses Pearl Balsley, Walker Fry, Nannie Mebane, Lillian Staples and Annie Pleasants.

These young ladies are requested to send their pictures at once to the "Confederate Vetertan."

The following letter was received from Gen. Carr yesterday:

"I am always glad to do what I can in behalf of the Lost Cause. I am today directing a special order issued appointing the young ladies you name as maids of honor to the Louisville reunion. It gives me genuine pleasure to do this, and it will afford me pleasure to show them special attention at Louisville. I will pass Greensboro Monday evening, May 28th, and there will be ample Pullman accommodations. I assure you that you and your friends shall have the best the times afford. I appoint the young ladies you mention as a testimonial of their merit, and as an evidence of my desire to accommodate your wishes.

We Are Cleaner Today.

With regard to all the refinements of habit conveyed in the words cleanliness, sanitation and facility of locomotion the small shopkeeper, the mechanic, the very peasant of today, is better off than were princes and noblemen 70 or 80 years ago. That little bathroom of poor Queen Marie Antoinette at the Trianon must have been almost as much an object of curiosity for its singularity in her day as it is now for its associations, and certain it is that in all those vast piles of buildings at Versailles, with all their gorgeous magnificence, bathrooms were an unknown quantity.

According to some authorities, Louis XIV never washed, a little cold cream applied with a cambric handkerchief serving instead. This let us hope was a calumny, but in St. Simon's minute and detailed account of the monarch's day, from the handing in of his periwig through the closed bed curtains in the morning until several dukes and marquises had handed the royal night chemise to each other, the highest in rank placing it on the royal shoulders, and his chaplain, kneeling at a priedieu at the foot of the bed, had said his night prayers for him, no mention is made of any ablutions, except that he was shaved every other day.—Cornhill Magazine.

Age Told by Teeth.

"Men's ages can be told by their teeth as accurately as horses," said a Frankford bookkeeper over his luncheon. "I have found this out by my intercourse with salesmen. They come into the office, stand at the little counter, and when the proprietor is not in they entertain me a weary while with accounts of their business skill and merited success. Having nothing to do, I watch their mouths—their mouths that cannot be stationary.

"Up to the age of 28, I have learned, a man's mouth closes and opens like a child's, and what teeth are displayed are the upper ones. At 30 the lower lip becomes loose, and the lower teeth are as much shown as the upper teeth. At 32 the tops or edges of the lower teeth are blunt, but they are still white. At 34 the upper teeth don't show at all. The lower ones' edges then are a pale brown.

"And so on, as the years go by, the lower lip droops more and more, the lower teeth become shorter, and their edges grow blunter, thicker and darker. I have often wondered why it is that the lower teeth wear down in this way, while the upper ones don't do it, and why only the upper front teeth decay."—Philadelphia Record.

Montana Sapphires.

There are in Montana sapphires of beauty and value, but they have never been as systematically worked as have been the sapphires of the orient. True, they are light in color, but they have more brilliancy than the Asian sapphires and often exhibit dichorism, or double color, under different lights. The supposition that a sapphire should be dark blue is possibly responsible for the slowness of their acceptance in the market, but as a matter of fact sapphires are not of necessity blue; they are green, yellow, purple, white, and when they are red we call them rubies, for the ruby and sapphire are identically the same, save for a fraction of a per cent of coloring matter.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Different Points of View.

Mr. Growells—What! You want a new bonnet? Why, I think the one you have is very becoming.

Mrs. Growells—Yes, and so do the neighbors. They think it is becoming very ancient and decrepit.—Chicago News.

Cure For Pneumonia.

Take six to ten onions, according to size, and chop fine; put in a large spider over a hot fire, then add about the same quantity of rye meal and vinegar enough to make it a thick paste. In the meanwhile stir it thoroughly, letting it simmer five or ten minutes. Then put in a cotton bag large enough to cover the lungs and apply it to the chest as hot as the patient can bear. When it gets cool, apply another and thus continue by reheating the poultices. In a few hours the patient will be out of danger.

This simple remedy has never failed in this too often fatal malady.

Usually three or four applications will be sufficient, but continue always until perspiration starts freely from the chest.

This simple remedy was formulated many years ago by one of the best physicians New England has ever known, who never lost a patient by this disease and won his renown by saving persons by simple remedies after the best medical talent had pronounced their cases hopeless. Personally we know of three persons who were saved by the remedy last winter in Boston after their physicians had given them up to die, and if a record was made of all similar cases during the last six years it would fill a good sized volume.—"The World's Progress."

Japanese Courtesy.

Dr. Seaman is an authority on Japan, and he tells this story of his last visit to that country:

"There was a little incident happened while we were in port that showed the magnanimity of those people. A United States soldier was out riding a bicycle, and he was coasting down hill, when he ran over a man. They promptly arrested him, and he was taken before a magistrate. We all went up from the transport to see how things went with him. The magistrate heard the case and fined him $5 for running over a blind man.

"'What!' said the soldier; 'was the man blind? Here, give him $20,' and he pulled out a $20 goldpiece and handed it over to the magistrate.

"And what do you think they did? They were so pleased that they remitted the whole fine, or would have done so, only the soldier would not take it back, but insisted on its being given to the blind man, and then they gave him a diploma setting forth what he had done."—New York Tribune.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. An Editor Nominated.

The Democrats of Forsyth county Saturday named Mr. J. B. Whitaker, editor of the Winston Sentinel, as one of their candidates for the Legislature. The nomination was most worthily bestowed. Mr. Whitaker has been long and actively engaged in the service of Democracy and deserves well at the hands of the party.

It is not often that newspaper men receive political honors, probably because they do not ask for them.

Sam Jones To Lecture.

The Telegram is requested to announce that Rev. Sam P. Jones will deliver his celebrated lecture on "Shams and the Genuine" in Reidsville on Wednesday night, May 30th. The lecture will be delivered in the Leader Warehouse for the benefit of the Methodist parsonage on Wentworth circuit. An admission of 50 cents will be charged.

George Gould's Ready Wit.

I heard a story about George Gould which goes to show that the possession of great wealth doesn't necessarily preclude the possession of a passing ready wit. It was several or even more years ago, while the elder Gould was still alive, that a woman I know met George Gould at a dinner. He was presented to her quite casually, and she did not catch his name. Conversation turned on operations in Wall street, and the woman I am speaking of launched out into a perfect torrent of ladylike abuse of Jay Gould. Everybody tried to stop her, but she perceived nothing except that people were looking at the young man. Turning to him, she asked:

"Do you know Jay Gould?"

"Well, yes," he said; "I've had some business dealings with him."—Washington Post.

Adams and Sculpture.

President John Quincy Adams once asserted that he would not give 50 cents for all the works of Phidias and Praxiteles, adding, "I hope America will not think of sculpture for two centuries to come."

When some one quoted this to William Morris Hunt, he asked dryly, "Does that sum of money really represent Mr. Adams' estimate of the sculpture of those artists or the value which he places upon 50 cents?"

Not a "Pompous Prelate."

Bishop Gailor, at a banquet at which the bishop of Kentucky was present, told this story on the latter gentleman:

"In one of the backwoods towns of Kentucky," said Bishop Gailor, "the pastor of the Baptist church gave out this notice before the sermon one Sunday morning:

"'I am told and have been partially convinced,' he said, 'that it is my Christian duty to give the following notice—to wit: That a man who styles himself "bishop of Kentucky" is about to visit this town and will hold forth in the courthouse on Wednesday evening. I desire to add, however, my brethren, that, in the humble opinion of your pastor, the place for members of this congregation on Wednesday night will be in this place listening to your own pastor rather than listening to the words of that pompous prelate at the courthouse.'

"On the following Thursday morning the Baptist went out upon the street seeking for some of his congregation who had not been at the Wednesday evening meeting. The first one he found was a deacon.

"'Well, deacon,' he asked, 'were you to the courthouse last night?'

"'Yes,' said the deacon.

"'I trust,' said the parson, with some irony in his tone, 'you were edified by the words of the pompous prelate.'

"'Now, looky here, parson,' said the deacon, 'that man ain't no pompous prelate; no such thing. He's just as common as there is. What do you reckon he did? He preached in his shirt sleeves!'"—Indianapolis Sentinel.

An Inimitable Feat.

The sailors of three men-of-war, American, French and British, while in the same harbor, were competing with each other for the best display of seamanship. A Yankee went to the top of the mainmast and stood there with an arm extended. A Frenchman then went aloft and extended both arms.

An Irishman on board the British ship thought if he could stand there with a leg and an arm extended he would be declared the most daring sailor. Nimbly he mounted to the highest point and attempted to do so, but at the last moment lost his balance and fell through the rigging toward the deck.

The various ropes against which he came in contact broke his fall, and when near the deck he succeeded in grasping a rope. To this he hung for a couple of seconds and then dropped lightly on the deck, landing safely on his feet.

Folding his arms triumphantly, as if it were all in the programme, he glanced toward the rival ships and joyously exclaimed:

"There, you frog eating and pig sticking foreigners, beat that if you can!"—Collier's Weekly.

WINE OF CARDUI

THE LINK THAT BINDS.

JACKSON, TENN., NOV. 28.

I was subject to miscarriage for three years, and suffered constantly with backache. I wrote to you for advice, and after using three bottles of Wine of Cardui, according to your directions, I am strong and well, and the mother of a fine girl baby.

Mrs. E. N. JOWERS.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

There is no use talking—a baby in the house is the link that binds husband and wife together. Nothing is sadder than fruitless wedlock. The prattling and cooing of the little ones offset a thousand times the occasional worries and trials of life. When a wife is barren, there is a derangement somewhere in the genital organs, caused by one or more of those common disorders known as "female troubles". Wine of Cardui is the remedy. It puts the organs of generation in a strong and healthy condition, fitting the wife for the sacred duty of reproducing her kind. During the period of gestation the entire system of the expectant mother is built up to withstand the ordeal of labor, and when the little one makes its advent it is lusty and strong, well-fitted to grow to maturity in perfect health. The mother, too, passes through the trial with little pain and no dread. Wine of Cardui is truly a wonderful medicine for women.

NEXT DOOR TO THE EXPRESS OFFICE.

The Mistake of Two Experts.

The President has granted a pardon in the case of Wm. Broughton, who was convicted in March, 1900, in the northern district of Georgia, of sending an obscene letter through the mails. He was sentenced to a term of five years in the penitentiary.

It appears that after Broughton's imprisoment the obscene letters continued to be sent and later on a man named Mitchell, the true culprit, was convicted of writing the letter for which Broughton was imprisoned. In his letter to the President, Attorney General Griggs comments upon the fact that Broughton's conviction was secured on the testimony of two experts in handwriting, who declared the writing was Broughton's.

Three Personal Items.

Sunday's Charlotte Observer.

Mr. C. M. Elam, of Greensboro, the leader of the Gate City Band, which will make music for the Elks' carnival this week, was here yesterday arranging quarters for his band.

Mrs. Calvin Cowles left for Guilford College yesterday morning to be present at her son's graduation.

Mrs. James Hall and Miss Hallie Hall, of Greensboro, arrived yesterday and will visit at Mr. Baxter Caldwell's, at Sugar Hill.

We have got it into our heads that Sunday was better observed in the puritanical acceptance of the word three or four generations back than it is now. It was quite otherwise. All the great ladies when Queen Victoria came to the throne—the Duchess of Wellington, the Duchess of Rutland, the Marchioness of Salisbury, the Lady Hyde Parker, the Misses Walpole—had regular card parties on a Sunday, and there were concerts and receptions all over the town announced with becoming regularity in The Morning Post.—Saturday Review.

The Duke and the Dean.

The late Prebendary Rogers used to tell how Lord Rosebery joined him in petitioning the Duke of Wellington to open Apsley House on Sunday afternoons, so that the public might see the pictures. The duke and Mr. Rogers met in the park and began to speak about the memorial.

"Among all these signatures," said the duke, "I find only one respectable name, and that is your own."

Mr. Rogers replied that Dean Stanley had signed.

"Oh," said the duke, "I don't call him respectable."

"Well, but there is Lord Rosebery."

"I don't think much of him," answered the duke; "but, as you assure me it is all right, I will see what can be done."

It was finally agreed that visitors should be admitted on condition that they wiped their feet on the mats and did not sit down on the sofas.—Westminster Gazette.

Piecing Bank Notes.

I am told at the treasury department that it is not possible for a person to defraud the government by what they call "piecing"—that is, by clipping off small slices of several bank notes and fitting them together to resemble a complete note. Such offenses have been committed, and the guilty persons have been sent to the penitentiary, but the treasury never redeems the bills, and the loss falls upon the persons who send them in for redemption. There are several ways of committing frauds of this nature, and they are done so skillfully as to escape detection except by experts. There is now a $500 note on exhibition at the treasury which is made up of 16 slices of other notes so skillfully fitted together as to escape the notice of a number of banks and many people who handled it.—Chicago Record.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of siatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

No Wild and Woolly West.

Easterners have an erroneous impression about the vast plains country that stretches eastward from the flanks of the Rockies to the wheatfields of the Dakotas. It is a region where crimes are far less numerous in proportion to population than they are in the densely settled regions of the eastern and middle states.

If the sombreroed ruffians with pistols and knives in their boots and cartridge belts around their waists are not in the cattle country, where, then, are they to be found? Where are those Alkali Ikes, Lariat Bills, et al., who fire at the decanters in barrooms and at the silk hats of tenderfoot straugers—the villainous desperadoes whose lynching bees and other harrowing anecdotes make up considerable of the stock in trade of our eastern comic illustrators? I do not know.

For many years I have wandered through the great northwest on horseback, stagecoach and in canoes, as well as in the palatial Pullman sleeper of the great transcontinental lines, and I have never discovered any of the fierce, bewhiskered dime novel heroes. During all my travels in the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and British Columbia I have never seen a man hurt or witnessed any sort of row, and I would feel much safer to strike across the mountains or plains alone on a broncho and unarmed than I would to walk up Clark street at night in Chicago—St. Paul Globe.

An Opera Air In Church.

Those of my churchgoing readers who are familiar with Mozart's opera of "Don Juan" and have even sung it in church in—

I am conscious of an interruption and a protest at this point, denying the allegation and defying the allegator, but I must insist on the truth of my statement. The tune "Smyrna" is not sung so much in church as it used to be, but you could find it in plenty of tunebooks 25 years ago. It is a beautiful melody, but not devotional except as it expresses the devotion of the fickle coquette in the opera as she consoles her bruised lover.—Irish Independent.

A Question of Advantage.

Man is distinguished from the beast by the power to speak his thoughts; the beast from the man by the power to keep its thoughts to itself.—Detroit Journal.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for conghs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by Grissom & Ford ham.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sel Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply iron and quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating tonics. Price, 50c.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY
Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BCTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

Ancient Cattle and Butchering.

The earliest records of Egypt depict a butcher cutting up an ox, exactly as it is done today outside of the great slaughtering establishments, with a knife that he sharpened upon a steel that hung at his side and providing cuts of meat precisely like ours. They used leather, and they did better tanning than we do; the blood, instead of being processed into fertilizing, was used for cooking purposes, and our Spanish friends never see a better bullfight than was daily purveyed for the delectation of those ancient "sports."

A little later in the world's history we find records of tricks being played in the cattle trade, for do not some historians aver that Jacob exercised undue influence upon the cows of Laban's herds as well as upon the ewes of his flocks? And others tell us that Zaph-u-to—otherwise known as "Joseph the Wise," stockbroker in chief for the Pharaoh Apophies, who, of course, was not known in the deal—cornered the cattle as well as the grain of all the country about.—Self Culture.

A Sure Test.

"Are you sure she is as gentle and patient and amiable as she seems?" asked the friend.

"Not quite sure," answered the young man who is in love, "but I'm going to find out."

"How?"

"I'm going to get her to call somebody up over a long distance telephone and then watch her."—Indianapolis Journal.

A little social life is good for one. As time goes on and the old friends have gone to their promotion it is well to keep up one's interest in the world of today by cultivating friendly relations with those about us.—Ladies' Home Journal.

It may be good for us to remember, as an English novelist tells us, that the shade of each departed day falls on our graves.
